

PREMIUM.

By way of inducing our friends in Lincoln and adjoining counties to subscribe for our paper, after this date, we make the following liberal offer: To each subscriber who desires it, and will pay so at the time of subscribing and paying the money ($2), we will give 15 extra fine plants of the Kirtland Raspberry—which is a large, early, red variety, and perfectly delicious. These plants alone are fully worth the price of our paper; but we have made such arrangements with nurserymen as to justify us in making this offer. Our object is to circulate our Journal all over interior Kentucky; and no effort shall be spared to accomplish it. The plants can be had by ordering them from our office.

Louisville and Cincinnati.
These are rival cities in every sense of the word. Their merchants try to rival each other in their efforts to secure trade from different sections. The one is our metropolis, the other our neighbor. An honest, earnest rivalry is commendable. We like to see it. Competition is the life of trade. It keeps opposing forces at work and brightens up the ideas of men. In no way can the merchants of these rival cities add more to their business success than by judicious, persistent advertising. Our paper will make weekly visits to almost every store, shop and stand in Central Kentucky; and those who advertise with us will find it the best investment they could make, considering the amount of money necessary to secure it. We shall at all times advocate the success of those who give us their aid, over those who have not the good sense and judgment to enter into it. Our section of the state is now in close communication, by rail, stage and telegraph, with both of these cities. Our merchants and others needing supplies for the farm, the roadside, etc., go either to the one city or the other for their needs. The wholesale merchant who advertises, whether he lives in Louisville or Cincinnati, has a decided advantage over those who are less thoughtful and enterprising. We hope to secure many standing carrels from merchants, in each city, and those who "speak first," can secure an advantage over those who are tardy. Try our columns a few months, and if you find we are not benefitting you; then, of course, we will withdraw our advertising.

Take your Home Paper.
The following is taken from the editorial columns of the Lady's Book for the present month: "What tells us so readily the standard of a town or city as the appearance of its paper? And its youth or its age can be as well determined by the observing as by a personal notice. The enterprise of its citizens is depicted by the looks of its paper. Some papers show a good, solid, healthy foundation, plethoric purses, and a well-to-do appearance generally; others show a striving to contend with the grasping thousands around them, trying hard to wrench out an existence from the close-fisted community around them. An occasional meteoric display in its columns of telegraph, or local or of editorial, show what it can do if it had the means, but it cannot continue in this expensive work until support comes, which ought to be readily given. A newspaper is like a church; it wants fostering in the commencement, and a few years; then, as a general thing, it can walk along, and reflect upon its location. Take your home paper; it gives you more news of immediate interest than New York or other papers; it talks for you when other localities believe you; it stands up for your rights; you always have a champion in your home paper, and those who stand up for you should certainly be sustained. Your interests are kindred and equal and you must rise or fall together. Therefore, let your interest to support your home paper; not grudgingly, but in a liberal spirit as a pleasure, not as a disagreeable duty, but as an investment that will amply pay the expenditure."

An extraordinary case which cannot fail to interest the medical fraternity, is reported in the Troy Times. A patient in the insane department of the Marshall Infirmary, who had been confined there upward of two years as a lunatic, was attacked by the smallpox, and after the run of the disease, recovered only his bodily health, but his reason also. He is now apparently as sound in mind as in body, and is preparing to go about his usual avocations.

A large meeting of the citizens of Boyle and adjoining counties was held at the Court-house, in Danville, on the 14th inst, presided over by Hon. F. T. Fox, the object of which was to memorialize the Kentucky Legislature to repeal the amendments to the Southern Railroad charter, asked by the Senate. Appropriate resolutions were adopted and forwarded to Frankfort.

Protracted Meeting.
Rev. Dr. Chas. Taylor has been delivering late sermons each night during the present week at the Methodist church.

The Yeoman eulogizes the late S. S. Prentiss, of Mississippi. Was that migrating Yankee a carpet-bagger?—Statesman.

No! the days of carpet-baggers were not then begun! People were honest in that early day.

OUT IN THE STREETS.

A woman named Eliza Dougherty, lately died and shivering with cold, came in off the street last night about eight o'clock, bearing a child about a year old in her arms and sought shelter in First-street station. She seemed to be in a sad plight indeed, and her story, if true, is one deserving pity. She came to this State last September from Indiana, where she had been made a victim to man's deception, ruin and forsaken. She left home with a child in her arms and came to this State to seek a livelihood by honest labor. Recently she has been employed as a servant at the house of Mr. Meriweather in the country. Her child has been afflicted with a fever that prevented her from work. She resolved on coming to town where she could see the proper authorities and try to get admission into the almshouse. She is without money and having, and last night she was lying, with her child by her side, on the hard station-house floor. When first she was discovered she was standing on the corner of Brook and Jefferson streets. She refused to get up, when advised to do so, and stood shivering in the cold wind until forced by the firing weather to seek shelter for her child, which she held in her arms, without sufficient wrapping to keep it warm.

We dip the above article from the Courier-Journal of Tuesday. "Ruin and forsaken." How often we hear this cry: Woman's shame—Man's infamy! Who is to blame? The man or the poor fallen victim of his blind passions? Yes! the poor outcast—shivering in the pitiless storms of a winter night, with her delicate babe pressed close to her bosom—dear to her, though born in shame. A mother's heart yearns toward that child. Who will take her in and shelter her from the rude blast of winter? Ah! how many such cases we have in this cold and selfish world. The literature may escape the punishment which his crime merits, in this world of injustice, but there is a tribunal before which he will most certainly appear, and before which he must render a full account for the "deeds done in the body." Man is always excused of such crimes—Woman never. Is there no relief for the "poor outcast"? No relief from the pains of this venomous sting? Not in this world; but He who said, "let him that is guilty cast the first stone," will rightly judge the sinner, and mete out to him that punishment which his offense deserves.

We sicken at the bare recital of such a tale of sorrow, and can only hope that public sentiment and public morals will vindicate and uphold the innocent victim.

Is Poverty a Crime?
If it is, then there are many criminals, for many are too poor to live in any sort of decent comfort.

The standard of honesty and excellence, in the minds of many men, is Give an individual plenty of money—fill his barns full, and examine his title papers to broad acres of land on which no mortgage lies; and what a multitude of faults are hidden beneath these things? Wealth hides more sins than anything else. "He was a poor, but an honest man." Ah, there it is, "poor," yet "honest," they say, as the two conditions were rarely allied. And that's the way the world feels toward poverty. Crime and poverty go hand in hand in the minds of too many of us. If men would learn to honor and trust each other for their intrinsic worth—their wealth of mind and soul—their talent, genius, industry, sobriety, etc., be rich or poor; and a lower estimate were placed upon each other for their wealth of purse; we would all be happier, wiser and better. Genius would often be rewarded, and better appreciated. "Poor yet honest" men would be stimulated to higher exertions, for they would come to feel and know that honor, trust and profit might follow such exertions. A man should be honored and applauded for what he is, not for what he has. It was not your men of wealth who gave to the world the steam engine—the telegraph, the sewing machine, and the thousands of other useful and scientific inventions which have revolutionized the whole civilized world; but men of poverty, who lived in obscurity, and under the ban of reproach on account of such poverty. It has ever been thus; and, we fear, will continue to be so, for man by nature, is ungrateful, and money rules the world.

Meeting of Members Opposed to the Senate's Amendments to the Apportionment Bill.
In response to the call in the Yeoman of the 8th, between thirty and forty members of the Legislature assembled at the Hall of the House of Representatives last evening, at the appointed hour. Hon. Thos. W. Varnon, of Lincoln, was called to the Chair, and Hon. John A. Bell, of Scott, was appointed Secretary. Mr. Blackburn of Woodford, then arose and stated the object of the meeting was for the members to interchange their views in reference to the amendments made by the Senate to the Apportionment bill. He proceeded then to give his objections to the amendments, speaking with reference only to his own district.

He was followed by Mr. Clay, of Bourbon; Mr. Bond, of Anderson; Mr. Thos. N. Johnson, of Green and Taylor; and Mr. Tucker, of Clark—each urging the objections of himself and his constituents to the Senate amendments. At the close of the speaking, Mr. Clay offered the following resolution, which was unanimously adopted as the sense of the meeting:

Resolved, That this meeting do earnestly recommend that the House of Representatives do not concur in the Senate amendments to the Apportionment bill, but call for a Committee of Conference.

The meeting then adjourned.
THOS. W. VARNON, Ch'n.
JOHN A. BELL, Sec'y.

Read This.

The Printing Gazette, an admirable paper, has the following remarks on "Country Newspapers." These words so clearly define our own notions, that we give them in our columns, hoping that all our readers will peruse them:

"The country newspaper cannot hope, by its weekly issue, to compete with the city daily in giving news from distant points; nor should its editor try to do so. But there is a field where it can win both influence and fortune. It cannot hope to please its patrons with a rehash of news from Washington or Europe, which has been read a week before in the city daily. On the contrary, it would only disgust them by seeing space occupied which could so much better be filled with something else. What is that something else which is so appropriate to a country newspaper? It is local news. It should be crammed with local news, every nook and corner in which it circulates, should be represented. Every bit of local news is read with satisfaction by all. Every item of local news, however trivial, should be heralded."

We endorse every word of the above, and shall try to act upon the suggestion, to the exclusion, almost entirely, of "foreign news."

The Boston Record, another sensible sheet says to this subject:

"Momentous events are so rare in the country that the people take the greatest account of small ones; and a paper which supplies a full and agreeable account of these is sure of liberal success. This record cannot be too full; the 'unconscionable trifles' that make up the sum of rural life look large in type, and people like to read about them. It is impossible to add that good judgment must provide over the work of gathering items, and that care should be taken to avoid scandal and gross personalities. These are points which every editor must adjust for himself. But they need not hinder him in the effort to make his paper not only welcome but absolutely necessary to all who have an interest in the affairs within its sphere. Demosthenes said that the secret of oratorical power was 'action! action! action!' It is not less true that the secret of success in a country newspaper is 'local! local! local!'"

"Sweet Owen."
Hail Sweet Owen! thou gem of Democracy—thou land of tobacco and hoop poles. We do not welcome you more into the Seventh District, but say thou art just in time to save it from the grasp of the fierce Radicals. Owen thou hast been lurked back and forth between the Sixth and Seventh Districts like a weaver's shuttle and we hope that your day of rest has not yet come, for we would gladly see thee back where thou belongest. Breckenridge is no longer a candidate for Congress. Monroe does not edit the Statesman. The great lights of Democracy of former days, the Johnstons, Daynes, Taylors, are succeeded by old Whigs and Know Nothings. Ah, Sweet Owen! you will find the old land marks gone. Awake, rouse your eyes and look about you; you will see that your own interest now is with the Republican party, the friend of the poor man.

Whoever heard the Radical party accused of helping the poor man's friend. Many of the good people of Owen county are poor it is true. Many of them may "turn an honest penny" by selling "hoop poles" yet this miserable taunt of the Statesman will not hurt them, they are above money and beyond price.

Notice.
All communications, either of an editorial or business character, should be addressed to HILTON & CAMPBELL, Box 18, Stanford, Ky.

Special Notice to Advertisers.
All advertisements must be handed in as early as Tuesday morning if inserted in the early issue. We were compelled to discontinue the advertisement in which they state that they have just received a large and handsome stock of new spring goods, consisting of latest styles of dress goods, white goods, etc. Call and see them and be waited on by the polite and courteous proprietors, and their clever, smiling young salesman Mr. D. E. James.

Health of Stanford.
The health of our people was never better than it has been this winter, and we are happy to note that it is continuing.

Tenacious.
Stanford wants a harbor, and we think a good harbor could do well here. It is worth the effort to try it.

A Beautiful Day.
Saturday last was one of the most delightful days of the new year. The doves were cooing and the blue birds and robins singing all around town.

New Music.
We thank D. P. Fauds, music publisher of Louisville, for two pieces of new music, viz: "Killicreevy," a sweet ballad and a new waltz, arranged for the piano.

Snow.
About three inches of snow fell on Sunday night and on Monday, which passed off rapidly Tuesday under the influence of a warm, bright sunlight.

Preaching.
Rev. R. H. McRoberts, pastor, preached in the Presbyterian church last Sunday, from the 103d Psalm, 13th and 14th verses. Quite a large audience attended. Rev. Dr. Taylor preached in the Methodist church.

Security of Hay.
Hardly a dozen farmers around this region have any hay, straw or fodder, and a town man finds it impossible to get even a cart load at any price. Some of them speak of sending to Louisville for it in bales. This great scarcity arose from the long protracted drought last summer.

New Store House.
Mr. J. N. Davis is erecting a new store house on Church street near the depot, and proposes to occupy it himself this spring—opening a notion store. It will be a convenience to our citizens in that part of town.

Released.
Ex deputy sheriff Dan Miller, who was arrested to Louisville recently on the complaint of "old aunt Caroline," for assault and battery, was released by the U. S. Commissioner, and for "form sake," required to give bond in $300 to keep the peace for six months.

Public Documents.
We are under obligations to Hons. F. P. Blair, J. B. Beck, and others, for several admirable speeches made in Congress on the current topics of the day, and we thank Mr. Beck for a copy of the agricultural report for 1870.

County Court Day.
The snow on Monday last made the day very disagreeable, and consequently a rather small attendance in town. Elsewhere we give reports of stock sold. The inclemency of the weather rendered bidding much less spirited than it would otherwise have been.

Our Town Clock.
Yes, certainly we are proud of our clock. Why should we not? Its deep swelling tones lay day and night, ring out to those who are awake, the busy or quiet hours. We are altogether pleased with it. Mr. Richards deserves much credit for the care and skill he displayed in putting it up.

Oppression.
Mr. W. G. Welch was molested in the sum of $1000—D. W. Jones and Mr. Gifferson in similar amounts. Mr. Shannon $700, J. M. Higgins one cent and costs, and W. C. Alexander one cent and costs. These were judgments entered in the civil suit of the negro whom it was charged first the Springs hotel, against the above named gentlemen.

Accident.
The fine young girl, the property of Mr. Edwin McRoberts, while standing near his stable at the branch, stepped off the abutment near the bridge, some four feet high, and dragged the buggy over with him, which nearly turned him and the buggy a summersault. Fortunately, the only damage done was a broken shaft and a slight cut on one of the animal's legs.

Hops.
Messrs. Duncan and Whitte passed through our town the other day with a fine lot of hops, destined for the Lexington market. They were from Wayne county, around Monticello. That section of our State beats the world for stock and stock traders. This is the second or third year which has gone through within the past two weeks.

An Invitation.
Mr. E. R. Cheneault requests us to inform his old customers that he is "still on hand," and can be found at the store of Severance & Miller. All those indebted to the late firm of Cheneault & Hughes are urgently requested to call on him and settle up.

Dead.
In this place, on last Tuesday evening, of infirmation of the brain, after an illness of over two weeks, Richard G., youngest child of the late Dr. John and Sarah C. Craig, in the sixth year of his age. He endured great suffering and was uncomprehending. A good, quiet, honest little boy has passed beyond the silent river, to meet on a fairer shore those he loved so well in life.

In Trouble.
Several of our professional men, and a few of our other business men, have had warrants of arrest served on them recently, by the collector of the government for this District, charging them with doing business in the years 1869 and '70, without having first obtained a license therefor. None of them declare that the charge is erroneous, as they paid the required sum, took a receipt, but have either lost or mislaid it, thinking that at this late day there was no danger of those old matters being raised up. Most—always file and carefully preserve any receipt you get from the government or State officers, as men are liable to forget or overlook such matters.

FROM HUSTONVILLE.
HUSTONVILLE, Ky., March 13th, 1872.
Messrs. HILTON & CAMPBELL:
We were generally delighted at the advent of your "Journal" in our uneventful community last Saturday. In fact some of us feel like making that day one of our cherished anniversaries. And why not? The Fourth of July has been lost amid the wreck and ruin of late developments. The Twenty-second of February (formerly a season of rejoicing) has passed away. The Eighth of January is enveloped in the "fog" of the month. In fact, we are constrained to set the seal of oblivion on all the past and start anew.

Then let us make our "base of operations" the INTERIOR JOURNAL. This is our banner! Let us spread it to the breeze. We are, therefore, compelled to admit that this end of the glorious old county of Lincoln is left amid the changes and revolutions of modern times—left in the shade. No railroad—no telegraph—no telegraph. Nothing but drag stores—nothing but drag stores. Please tell Tom Varon that he and our unangelic authorities have destroyed the health of the town. The hotels feel well—better than anybody, but no drink. Mark the result! Four drag stores and everybody sick.

The doctors have adopted a new nomenclature. E. g. "cock tail" is Latinized thus—"cocktail." "Apple Jack" becomes "apple juice," and "pumpkin" is a universal formula for every ailment.

The pressure of the times has produced an "Exodus," and Cornelius Montgomery, Jas. H. Blackford and J. H. Blackford left yesterday for the West.

Frank Kauffman has returned home, from Utah, and we believe in mind and limb.

More Improvements.
Our information is to the effect that the Directors of our Farmer's National Bank at Stanford, contemplate the improvement of their already convenient and commodious banking house, which is situated in the very heart of our business center, on the corner of Main and Lancaster streets. The improvement contemplated is to make two open fronts of iron, and plate glass—the one on Main and the other on Lancaster streets. This was done, this would be one of the handsomest and most convenient banking houses in the State. We sincerely hope that the enterprising Directors will carry out the above plan, as we feel sure that its growing business would justify such an expenditure and change.

Organ.
The members and friends of the Presbyterian church in our town have raised part of the funds necessary to purchase a church organ. They still lack about $60 to complete the payment, and we hope that all who like delightful church music will lend a helping hand and make a contribution to this fund. The money must be raised within the next 30 days. Leave your subscription, be it much or little, either with Mr. W. B. McRoberts at the drug store of W. H. Anderson, or with Dr. Steele Bailey.

Hon. C. M. Clay.
It is rumored that our citizens intend to invite the Hon. C. M. Clay of Madison county, to visit our town on the first day of April. Mr. Clay (18th) and deliver a speech upon the politics and politicians of the day. We learn further that Mr. Clay has signified his willingness to accept the invitation. If he will do so, we can promise him a large and attentive audience of men of all parties, and can assure our people that they will hear a very able and dignified speaker. We hope he may come.

Heart and Hand.
This is a weekly paper for the Old Fellows and Daughters of Bettsbach, published by the Golden Rule Association, No. 124 and 130 Fulton street, New York. Terms two dollars per annum. Every Old Fellow who desires to be thoroughly posted as to the progress of his Order, to disseminate its literature and at the same time provide an excellent literary paper for his family, should subscribe for the Heart and Hand. Address W. H. Barnes, P. O. M., Box 4091, New York City.

New Masonic Lodge.
The two flourishing Lodges of A. Y. Masons in Stanford are in conference with Mr. Henry Baughman, with whom they desire to contract for the erection of a large two or three story brick house, to be built in front of his residence on the south side of Church street, opposite the Myers' House. If built, the lower story will be arranged for business houses, and the second as a Lodge room. It is proposed to have it large and airy. Whomsoever is looking up?

Public Sale of Property.
At the sale, on the 13th inst., of the property of the late Dr. Thomas Welch, deceased, at Crab Orchard, Kentucky, the attendance being very good, the following property was sold, viz: three cows $28, an old cow $17, a male calf $20 to 30, household furniture and other property at reasonably good prices.

Rain.
The clouds commenced lowering and darkening early yesterday morning and continued up till noon when it began to rain, and it is now raining rapidly with a good prospect of continuing long enough to cause the water courses. We hope it will rain enough to raise the Cumberland river sufficiently for the lumber men and coal dealers along that stream, to get out to market with the vast amount of lumber and coal they have prepared to ship the first tide they have.

Shooting.
Mr. Carol Hunter, a young man of Crab Orchard, Kentucky, shot Wm. G. Collier who lives near that place, on Monday last. Several shots were fired, two of which took effect, one in the arm and the other near the neck. The wounds are very slight, as Mr. Collier is well and attending to business. The difficulty grew out of some private misunderstanding. An examining trial will be held in a few days.

Month and Home.
This is the title of a literary, agricultural and horticultural weekly journal, published in New York, at 245 Broadway, by Orange Judd & Co., at $3 per annum. It is the very best paper of its class in the world. Its illustrations are wonderfully fine. We wish it could circulate in every Kentucky family. There is no "concealed" political bias in it.

All in Good Feeling.
We learn that the plaintiff in the "dog suit," mentioned in our first issue, did not collect the $50 for which he obtained a verdict, but only wished to show his neighbor that the law protects a person in the ownership of his dog as well as his horse.

Many Thanks.
We feel grateful to those friends who handed in their names as subscribers to our journal on last Monday, and to our long list of friends at Crab Orchard who came to our relief on last Wednesday. Such encouragement is properly appreciated.

SEVERANCE & MILLER invite special attention to their large and handsome stock of Hamburg silks and linings, just received.

OUR FRIENDS.
We have taken occasion to publish a few remarks in this issue about some of our unfortunates. It is not intended to slander them, but to call special attention to their business, and all we have written of them is true in every sense of the word. We call them friends, because they have proven their friendship by helping us in our business, and we intend to help them. Advertising helps any business man. So say all successful men.

MILLINERY.
Mrs. L. Beasley, whose store adjoins the post office on the west, has a hand and will continue to receive all the spring styles of bonnets, dresses, etc., and make them to order at reasonable rates. She is a lady of the first taste.

DRUG & OREOLEY.
For pure drugs, medicines, wines, palates, and any other article usually kept in a first-class drug store, you cannot go elsewhere and find better goods, or more moderate prices, than you can at this establishment.

DEATH & CLARE.
We invite attention to the card of these gentlemen, who are now, as usual, putting up some of the best buggies, spring wagons, etc., which we have ever seen. Not only this, but their repairing shops are under full headway, with a team of careful and skillful workmen and all their jobs full of satisfaction. If you have an old buggy, rockaway or spring wagon, take it to them and they will make it new for a few dollars.

LEMAIRE.
If you need lumber of any kind and in any quantity, call on or address J. W. Gilman, Stanford, Ky. He can supply everything.

W. R. ANDERSON.
No country town can boast of a better drug and variety store than Anderson's. Beside this, when one calls there he is waited upon promptly and politely. His stock of drugs, notions, etc., is always kept full and complete.

J. R. ALPHEUS.
For nearly a quarter of a century this gentleman has lived in our midst and carried on the business of blacksmithing at the same old stand. His reputation for honest work is as good as that of any mechanic we know.

OUR UNDERTAKER.
S. D. Myers, Esq., our undertaker, has always on hand burial cases, etc., and is supplied with an elegant hearse. Unlike many men who are similarly engaged, he does not extort upon the friends of deceased persons. His prices are always moderate.

M'ALISTER & MILLER.
We are always inclined to give our influence to young men starting out in life to do business for themselves, and it now affords us real pleasure to call attention to the advertisement of the above dry goods house. Sober, attentive, and polite—with an elegant stock of goods at low prices, they are bound to succeed.

PROFESSOR.
Notwithstanding great losses at the Chicago fire, which have all been paid, this grand old fire insurance company—"Phoenix"—arose from the ashes and stands to-day the peer of any American company.

CRAB & M'ALISTER.
These gentlemen call their store a "barber store." Well, this is a very appropriate name, for they always ready to change any of their goods for country produce or "gifted goods." Persons who buy from them, always go back again, because they are fairly dealt with.

MERCHANT TAILOR.
No town in Kentucky has a better merchant tailor than Sam Matheny. His stock of gentlemen's dress goods is superb and he always makes a perfect fit. Go up and look over his fine goods.

BLACKSMITHING, WAGON, ETC.
William Daugherty, whose shops are near the Female College, is prepared to do all kinds of blacksmithing and wagon making, in good style and at prices to suit the times.

TIN SHOP, STOVES, ETC.
In the west end of town, near the water mills, Peter Mrazak is ready to do all kinds of tin and copper work, and to sell you any kind of stores you want. The fact is, our people could not get along without such a useful mechanic.

ROYAL INSURANCE COMPANY.
This sterling old fire insurance company, with a capacity of $10,000,000, in paid, and a privilege of many years experience in the business; stands, to-day, prominent among the leading fire companies of the world. No safer or better policy can be had than one from her agent here.

RAIL & CO.
The name of this firm has become a household word all over our town and county. We never pass their store without feeling a crowd in their buying, and Messrs. Caldwell and Pendleton are clever salesmen.

ASHES ORLEY.
If you are in want of any groceries, hardware, notions, axis, iron, old whisky by the barrel, meat, or anything else in the grocery line, you can find it at this house. If you are looking elsewhere for an article and can't find it, from a paper of pine to a reaper and mower, go to Orley's and you will not have to look any further.

E. R. HAYDEN.
We dropped into the large dry goods house of this gentleman the other day, and found Col. Foley and Mr. H. busy preparing to receive a large invoice of new and elegant spring and summer goods, which are arriving and will continue to arrive during the season. His store is under our office, and we ask our friends to call on them when they come to pay for this JOURNAL.

CARPENTER HOUSE.
On the corner of Main and Somerset streets the Carpenter House can be found by the traveling public, and we speak from personal knowledge when we say that Kentucky has as better inland hotel than this.

SEVERANCE & MILLER.
These gentlemen, whose store is situated immediately opposite our office, keep up one of the largest, neatest, and best selected stocks of dry goods, clothing, boots and shoes, notions, etc., and they have ever examined in a country town, and, better still, they mark their prices to suit those hard times.

OUR READERS.
Our readers cannot fail to notice the double-column advertisement of this enterprising young man. His store is always thronged with customers, because he sells goods cheap, and of the best quality. He makes fairly four a specialty and we never saw better than he keeps.

SOUTHERN MUTUAL LIFE.
This sterling life insurance company is in a very prosperous condition. No other company, of which we have any knowledge, presents greater inducements to those who would seek protection to family and friends. Read their advertisement.

REMEDY FOR RHEUMATISM.
We call attention to the advertisement of Dr. Filice in another column. His medicines can be bought at the drug store of W. H. Anderson, who is sole agent for Stanford.

J. M. ROBERTSON.
Our readers will be attracted by the half-column advertisement of J. M. Robertson, who is now alone in the boot and shoe and clothing business. Mr. R. is an enterprising young man, deserving of success, and his liberality with all of his customers will certainly secure it. He has determined to offer goods at lower prices than has ever been offered in this section of Kentucky.

MR. J. F. ROBERTSON.
Of Crab Orchard, announces himself as a candidate for sheriff. He is a worthy and popular man.

DARWIN HOUSE.
This excellent hotel is on the north side of Main street, near the court-house, formerly known as the Warren House. Those who desire a first-class entertainment will not be disappointed when they entrust themselves to Mr. Garrison's care.

An Old Man Murdered.
We learn from Mr. Graham, of Millersburg, Kentucky, that on last Friday night a party of several men visited the home of an old man about 80 years of age, who lives near Shelby City, and murdered him in cold blood, with an ax. His name was Joseph McNeal. They also tried to ravish his wife, an old woman of near 60 years.

The Boyle county Circuit Court is now in session, and the grand jury will return a true bill against the fiend, and his wife is fixed and certain. A strong guard has been placed around the jail where this human devil is confined, and the good people of this peaceful section will not quietly await the judgment of the law, and not seek to visit summary vengeance upon a demon of this kind.

The negro who committed the murder is about sixteen years of age and is said to wear the countenance of an infernal fiend. He not only assaulted this old man with a knife, but he broke in several places with a knife, and finally finished his deadly purpose with an ax. The only object of the murderer was to ravish the wife of old man McNeal, which he failed to accomplish. The knife with which he operated, was found on his person—blood, and the stains upon his hands, which were wiped by him from the knife, were found upon his person. The sick he used was also wiped. No possible doubt can exist as to guilt. When interrogated as to the cause of this blood appearing upon his boots, handkerchiefs, and pants, he said that he had killed a calf for Dr. Lewis a day or two before, but on investigation, Dr. Lewis said that this negro had skinned a calf for him ten days previous, which had been drowned in a well. This being true, of course the blood could not have been upon him in the case of this fiend and his woman.

Entertainment.
The Crab Orchard Dramatic Company will give an entertainment at Stanford next, the proceeds to be appropriated to the completion of the Confederate monument over the Confederate dead, buried in the cemetery. We hope for them a large attendance, and feel assured that those who attend will be highly entertained and benefited many times the price of admission.

Go to Severance and Miller's and see their new hoop skirts with Bustles attached.

A Calamity.
A certain paper which is published up north somewhere, says "a weakness and fondness for jewelry and dress is a peculiar characteristic of the women of the South." Now we deny this as a base calumny! I wonder to the women of the South, if, do not our Northern women dress finer and more—were not more costly jewelry than our women? Do your women not buy $1000 shawls, $500 dresses and $1000 diamond sets? The only difference between them is, that Southern women know how to wear them gracefully.

SEVERANCE & MILLER have just received a large stock of new, women's and children's shoes.

Court Day Sales.
Col. W. M. Carpenter reports the following sales of stock on last county court day, viz: Eight head 3-year-old cattle, $22.50; 5 broke calves, (withers) 1.25; 3 head 1-year-old cattle, calves, $12; 3 broke calves, $11.50; 1 cow, $15; 20 1-year-old cattle, calves, $15; 20 1-year-old cattle, calves, $15; 1 horse, withers, $70; 1 mare $90.

Now is the time to buy your garden seeds. Fresh and genuine seeds, go to W. H. Anderson's drug store.

Organ Arrived.
The church organ purchased by the friends and members of the Presbyterian church, and selected by the accommodating Dr. Merriam in person, arrived on last Saturday. It is a most excellent instrument, and under the skillful hand of Miss Moffa—its deep diapason fills the entire church distinctly. We had the pleasure of being present at one of the weekly services of the Presbyterian church choir, and are proud to accord to their accomplished leader all praise for her efforts in improving this delightful and important part of the worship.

GENTLEMEN'S new style spring hats just received at Severance & Miller's.

Our Employees.
We have secured the services of Mr. John K. Sevel as foreman in our office, and we are satisfied that his long experience as a compositor will secure to us the very best typographical work. Mr. Wright, his assistant, will add much to the neat appearance of our paper. As an apprentice, we have young George Perigo, of Crab Orchard, Kentucky, son of "Uncle Ben," and we are satisfied that with this nice and industrious corps of hands, we shall be able at all times, to make "our appearance" promptly and "on time"—barring accidents, which are liable to occur at any printing office in the country, remote from type foundries.

The genuine white alter-kiss' calico sets will be found at W. H. Anderson's drug store.

Home and School.
This is the title of a neat little monthly magazine published in Louisville by Jno. P. Morton & Co. The March number is on our table. It can be had for $1.50 per annum. Wm. J. Davis Editor.

We failed to mention this magazine in our history of the Kentucky Press—from an oversight.

SOMETHING NEW. Patent shell craps columns in plain black, and black and white for sale at Severance & Miller's.

Our Somerset Correspondent.
We have been promised an occasional letter from a talented young lawyer at Somerset, whose literary attainments are known to be of the "first order." Send on your communications, friend Will, and they shall have a prominent place in our columns.

Don't be in a Hurry.
We sympathize with our farmers and gardeners who are impatient, this warm weather, to turn up their stubble fields and gardens, preparatory to putting in such grain and seed as require to be sown early. Our advice is, don't be in a hurry. The ground is wet and is to be stirred. Better to wait a few weeks longer, when the brick winds of March will thoroughly dry the soil, and then you can put in your plans and turn up the earth from "early dawn to dewy eve," and nothing will be lost by the delay. On the contrary, your crops will be earlier and better for it.

Coal.
Mr. Buford, agent for Pine Hill coal, informs us that he keeps constantly on hand all block coal. Orders to him will be promptly filled.

Mr. Alfred, another coal merchant, is expected in large supply from Pine Hill to-day, and is also prompt in filling orders.

Our Cemetery.
There is not a more beautiful site for a cemetery in the country than the one where our cemetery is situated. It is on an elevation, and overlooking the town and surrounding country. Around its base flows a brook of pure water, and in the eastern background trees of centuries growth wave their tall heads. To the west, the railroad track can be seen for over a mile, and along one edge the Hamiltonville pike runs. The soil is all that could be desired. Nevertheless, it is permitted to go to waste. Once a year, perhaps, the winds and rains come off. With this single exception, nothing is done, and the whole aspect is one of decay and neglect. If ours were a poor people, this state of affairs might be pardonable, but a community which is able to build a fine court house—many tenipike roads, and amass $25,000 to a railroad, to build fine churches, buy organs, build residences and business houses, wear fine clothes and ride in gilded carriages, is surely able to contribute to the adornment of a decent burial place for their beloved dead. We hope our citizens will not look to observe the remains of a nation's hero and to observe the remains of the graves of our departed countrymen. Many of our citizens in both town and country, have friends and relatives buried there. Much money has been expended upon monuments, etc., yet the graves are off their hinges—the weeds and briars rankle there, and the whole place bears an aspect of waste and desolation, and neglect. How long shall it continue, friends? Have you no pride in the matter? Does the memory of your dear departed relatives fade from your minds? Do you not feel that it is a disgrace to have the waste place of the earth, or do you wish that, after you are gone, loving hands may plant flowers and protect them, ever your final resting place? If so, see to it that your cemetery is taken care of.

W. H. ANDERSON requests us to say to his customers that he does not expect the money on their accounts for 1871, but requests that they give him time to call forward and give their notes.

Communication.
STANFORD, KY., March 8, 1872.
EDITOR OF THE INTERIOR JOURNAL:
In your issue bearing date March 8th, 1872, we notice an article under the heading of "professional cards," which article may tend to cause the public to believe that all physicians who have in the past inserted their professional cards in newspapers have violated the Code of Medical Ethics. You state in the article referred to above, "that some of our professional men object to inserting their cards in a newspaper, claiming that it is opposed to their Code of Ethics."

It may be a violation of their particular code of ethics, but is not a violation of the Code of Medical Ethics adopted by the American Medical Association. It would, however, in the language of the code be "degeneracy to the dignity of the profession to resort to public advertisements, or private cards or handbills, inviting the attention of individuals affected with particular diseases; publicly offering advice and medicine to the poor gratis, or promising radical cures; or to publish cases and operations in the daily prints, or suffer such publications to be made; to invite laymen to be present at operations; to boast of cures and remedies; to adduce certificates of skill, or to perform any other similar acts. These are the ordinary practices of empirics and are highly reprehensible in a regular physician." We would like to know of the gentlemen who informed you that it is a violation of the Code of Ethics to insert a professional card in a newspaper whether they have not suffered a publication of their cases and operations and performed other acts diametrically opposed to the Code of Medical Ethics as adopted by the American Medical Association. We dislike to see men strain at a gnat and swallow a camel, at the same time display utter ignorance of the Code of Medical Ethics.

Just here it is necessary to state that we noticed some months since a statement in the Stanford Democrat relative to pecuniary acknowledgements for medical service rendered, which involved our State Medical Society. If my memory serves me, the statement made by some of our physicians through the columns of the Democrat was "that our State Society had fixed a scale of fees by which we were to be governed, etc." This is entirely erroneous, as our State Society has nothing to do with the regulation of fees of a local or any other society.

A Friend of MEDICAL ETHICS.

Lincoln County Bonds.
By authority of the Kentucky Legislature, of December 1871, this county issued $11,000 in bonds for repairs on the court-house. On the 16th day of last January these bonds were sold to the Farmer's National Bank of Stanford, above par! They bear ten per cent interest, and have ten years to run; the county reserving the right to take them in at any time. The bank sold one of these bonds, of the denomination of $1,000, at 2 per cent above par, with interest accrued since the 16th day of January 1872. To our mind, this speaks well for the financial condition of our county; and reflects credit upon the financial officers of this young, but sterling banking institution.

Too Late.
The train from Louisville does not arrive here until nearly 2 o'clock. It is only about one hundred miles of travel, and a road as old as this should make at least twenty miles per hour, including stoppages; and if the train would leave Louisville at 7 1/2 A. M. it would reach our town at 12 1/2 and thus enable passengers to dine here, and reach Liberty, Wayneburg and other points some twenty or twenty-five miles distant the same day. Such an arrangement would, in our opinion greatly increase travel on the road. As it now is, many persons go over the Kentucky Central who would travel over this road.

Laurester.
We are only eight miles from this town, and until their enterprising citizens get up a paper of their own, which they should do, we hope they will give us their patronage, both in advertising and subscription. There is a goodly heritage—rich soil and solid business men, we see no reason why they should not progress as rapidly as any other people in Kentucky.

Accident.
Our friend Dr. W. H. Hilton, Esq., in going to Crab Orchard last Wednesday morning, in a buggy with Mr. Dennis, had a narrow escape from injury. The horse became frightened, and ran off at full speed. Fortunately, however, but little damage was done to either men, buggy, or horse.

Our Hustonville Reporter.
The pleasant and sparkling notes of our Hustonville reporter will be read with pleasure by all our subscribers. He is a gentleman of culture and fine literary attainments. We appreciate his favors at all times, and sincerely hope that he may send us weekly reports of all the news in his rich region of country.

Information.
For the benefit of many inquiring friends of the county officers, we are requested to announce that the court-house will probably be ready for use about the middle of May.

Funeral.
The funeral of little Richard Craig, was largely attended on last Thursday. Rev. W. L. Williams preached the funeral sermon at his late residence.

Fruit Killed.
We have examined the buds of many peach trees in several localities here, and to our sorrow find all dead.

An Explanation.
Messrs. Owsley & Rochester request us to say to their friends and customers, that Mr. Owsley in retiring from the firm of Owsley & Rochester, assumes all the liabilities of the firm at the time of dissolution, and draws all accounts due the firm either by notes, accounts, or otherwise. Having determined to leave the county, he has placed said accounts &c., in the hands of Mr. A. R. Penny for collection.

Beautiful Days.
Warm, bright days will come sometimes, even in winter, or the windy month of March. Last Wednesday the sun shone out delightfully warm and spring really seemed to have made its advent. The sunny side of the streets were thronged with lazy loungers who seemed to enjoy the soft light and balmy air as much, as the birds that flew in and out the trees which skirt our side walks.

A Call.
A. G. Pendleton is authorized to receive all money due the late firm of Pendleton & Campbell, and all persons indebted to them are notified that they must settle immediately or their accounts will certainly be placed in the hands of an officer for collection. Poor men cannot afford to borrow money with which to pay their debts. You who are able will please remember your promises to us when you bought our goods.

Deserted.
A man by the name of Butcher, who resided in the Wayneburg end of this county, recently dropped his two infant female children, on old man Clef, representing that he would call for them in a short time and pay for their keeping. Nothing since has been heard of Butcher, and the inference is that the children will become a county charge. Butcher's wife had previously died, or he had separated from her, we are not advised which.

Court Day at Lexington.
(From the Observer and Reporter.)
It was generally agreed by the large crowd that waded through our streets last Monday, that the weather was by odds the worst of a severely wintry season. There were about 600 head of cattle on the market; medium quality; fair price;—best bringing $5. Few sales. Three or four hundred mules of inferior quality. Prices low;—two year olds selling from $68 to $85; broke mules from $140 to $175. Horses—few on the market; few sales.

THE MARKETS.
Louisville Live Stock Market.
CATTLE—Best grades for shipping purposes $25.00; 50; butcher's stuff, $24.00; 50; medium $23.00; 50; common $22.00; 50; 50 per hundred. Fresh milkers sell at quality, from $30 to 50.
HORSES—Market good. Best for shipment $60.00; 50; good $55.00; 50 per hundred; mixed lots sell at $2.00 to 3.00 per head. Horses—The market remains quiet. Best $40.00; 15; light $15.00; 20 per 100 lb. ground.
